First Day Sales In Gallion Gardens Sets New Record

SUNSET BEACH BARBECUE MARKS OPENING SALE DAY

Long before the opening hours hundreds of peoples had congregated on the bank of Tohopekaliga Lake on what is to be Sunset Beach one of the beautiful sub-divisions, north-east of St. Cloud. Promptly at the hour appointed, the guests were invited to a long table, under the beautiful trees on the beach and with the assistance of the courteous bunch of salesmen, Col. Wood and Mr. Robert H. Grigor, almost like magic the entire company were soon feasting on the barbecue dinner that was prepared on the grounds. After all had partaken of the feast the chairs that had been procured for the occasion were arranged to face the stand. Mr. Grigor acting as spokesman introduced Hon. G. C. Outlaw, mayor-commissioner of St. Cloud, who gave the crowd a most hearty welcome in behalf of Osceola county, St. Cloud and to Sunset Beach. As evidence of his faith in the future of this beautiful spot and as a recommendation for same, he said he had purchased the first lot sold. A personal friend of Mr. Grigor, Mr. Geo. E. Trane, of Sarasota, was the next to speak and brought forth much merrierment in ascertaining the number present from different states which was fifteen.

Col. Wood, of Connecticut, the main speaker, who was the next introduced said he was pleased to note that there were so many present from his home state. That the greatest attainment one could have was health, wealth and happiness and that in Florida all these can now be obtained. Go East, North, West and West across the plains, over the Rockies to California, with her beautiful scenery then turn back to Florida, with her year around climate and read as I did a night message from my home state that they are in the throes of a blizzard, with eighteen inches of snow and thermometer at thirty above zero.

The place where sun-stroke are never known. With the cool breeze from the Atlantic, banking summers delightful and the Gulf kissing the breezes making them pleasant in the winter. So long has Florida been known as the state of sun-shine and flowers that many of its real advantages have been overlooked. When you take into consideration that out of the twenty million acres of land in Florida, have we stopped to consider that Florida is as large as all new England states combined that only three millions of this wonderful soil has been subdued and put into cultivation.

The so called boom, is not a boom, but is the natural exaltation of mankind to that which is better and more wealth. That Uncle Sam who does things right, is evidenced when in 1905 a committee of investigation was sent out to secure from many view points a suitable place to establish a suitable place for the men of the "sixties". After fine-combing the north, west and east finally coming to Florida continuing the same process from north to Key West, finally coming to Osceola county where on the banks of the beautiful Lake Tohopekaliga which from all points of the thorough investigation filled all the requirements, which resulted in the establishing a veteran colony afterwards known as St. Cloud, where hundreds of the honored sons with their families came and many have from the climate, and bathing in the waters of the lake, which proved to have medicinal qualities, been restored to health and happiness, and many are in active business life here now which speaks for itself.

This is not a land promoters story. When I came into St. Cloud and found eleven men whose ages ranged from eleven to one hundred and undoubtedly the greatest sale of high grade residential lots and home sites ever known in the vicinity was that of Gallion Gardens on its opening date last Monday when $43750 worth of lots were sold in one day. The fact that the bulk of the sales were made to St. Cloud people speaks highly for Gallion Gardens, for certainly old time residents here know the best part of the city.

The most pleasing feature of it all is that a large number of these lots were purchased for home sites. John E. Daniels will build on Lots No. 9 & 10 in Block 425 for his permanent home and will build on Lots No. 11 & 12 in Block 425 for sale. E. K. Berry will build his home adjoining the home of Mr. Daniels. Claude F. Johnson, owner of the Tribune will build on Lot No. 9 in Block 415.

Fred Swanger, of New London, O., will build on Lot No. 2 in Block 396. These homes will be started as soon as material can be procured, some of which has already been delivered to their home sites.

Sonnet Stewart, another life long resident, will build on Lot No. 9 in Block 397 as soon as he sells his present home.

City Commissioner John J. Johnston also contemplates building at an early date and it is to be expected that within a short time a number of new homes in this select residential section will be completed.

The owners of Gallion Gardens also announce they have a landscape gardener designing the improvements to go into the city park, which is in the center of Gallion Gardens. These plans call for a large fountain to be constructed of Coquina Rock, while broad walks will lead from all corners to the center of the park which will be fittingly landscaped in trees, flowers, and shrubs.

The owners and developers of Gallion Gardens appreciate the support accorded them by the local citizens and it is a testimonial to the belief of the substantial people of the city that they are doing wonderful things for the city.

The hotel now under construction, their proposed theatre, offices, and store rooms to be erected immediately upon the completion of the hotel, and their development work in providing the only restricted home site section in the city is substantial evidence that they believe in St. Cloud and its future and that they are not sitting idly awaiting for some one to increase the value of their property. Neither do they live in anticipation, for they have caught the vision of our natural advantages and the city is fortunate indeed that the start of the future growth is due to their foresight.

A few real developers of their character and their work will bring about a city of beautiful streets, beautiful homes, substantial business houses and an era of progress that will speak a city of 10,000 people within a year.

We are glad to see new homes going up in Gallion Gardens and wish we could, like "growing Orlando", contemplate new construction daily.

LARGEST ATTENDANCE SINCE ORGANIZATION AT CHAMBER COMMERCE WEDNESDAY

With both of the long banquet tables stretched to full length and, as they kept coming, another table was brought into service and every available space was taken.

Although disappointed at not having the pleasure of hearing at this time, Ed and Grace McConnell entertained, as had been previously announced, who were their guests. Secretary Rolfe announced that some of the members of the St. Cloud municipal organization would furnish the entertainment, and Messrs. Litzel, Bolton, Danneberg and Stahler, the quartette who did the entertaining, brought forth expressions of delight and appreciation. The McConnells assured Secretary Rolfe that they would not disappoint us next Wednesday.

Any who are anticipating coming to the luncheon next Wednesday will confer a favor if they will leave word with the young lady in the Chamber rooms before that day. We want all who wish to do so, to enjoy and receive benefit from those meetings and wish to make ample provision for same.

After the reading of the minutes, the following gentlemen were introduced: Mr. Dawley introduced Mr. Cherry; Mr. Tucker introduced W. C. Marquering, who has entered the real estate business office with John F. Bailey; and Secretary Rolfe in duced W. E. and Mrs. Nace, of Tampa. Mr. Nace is director and editor of Rivaldi's Guide and presented the wonderful scope covered as an advertising medium with 200,000 guaranteed circulation is considered as best advertising medium in the world by New York Times and Chicago Times. The matter of St. Cloud Chamber of Commerce, securing space was taken up after the meeting by the board of directors.

Mr. B. L. Steen, chairman of Committee on proposed county-wide issue, reported a very enthusiastic meeting held in Kissimmee last Monday night and on next Monday night there will be a joint meeting of all these civic organizations at the chamber of commerce rooms in St. Cloud to make final arrangements.

The names of Mr. Dossier and Seyill who are with the G. C. Hunter Co., were presented by Secretary Rolfe for membership and they were elected. The St. Cloud sign made by Don Zeileis, of the Tribune Co., which was on display was next given attention by the Secretary; also the matter of a membership drive. He said we must have at least one thousand members and within the next week or two will explain his plan and purpose. That every citizen old and young should be a member of the Chamber of Commerce as this membership means greater St. Cloud.

convention will be published in next week's Tribune. The business meeting took more than the allotted time but was very satisfactory and it looks now as the St. Cloud will "go-over-the-top" in holding a State Convention same as she is doing in selling real estate.

Meeting closed with W. C. T. U. Benediction.

MUNGO W. BROWNLEE

John A. Jeffery, received a telegram from Will M. Brownlee, son of Mungo W. Brownlee, who passed away at the home of his son in Toronto, Canada, where he had gone for a visit. About a year ago Mr. Brownlee came to St. Cloud and bought the home of Capt. J. D. Frost on Florida Avenue, and Seventh St., moving with his wife to St. Cloud from Melbourne in November. After coming here, he acquired quite a bit of valuable property. Leaving here in good spirits he went to Canada to visit his son, Will, and about three weeks ago he was taken ill and Mrs. Brownlee, who was visiting her son in Greeley, Colo., was sent for. Upon arrival she was given no assurance for the recovery of her son, however, every thing was done and through out the remaining time, he made a brave struggle, but all was in vain, and on the morning of the 18th the end came. Peacefully he passed into the unseen.

During his brief stay in St. Cloud he made many friends who will regret to learn of his departure.

Mrs. E. A. Daniels, who has been visiting in Michigan and Ohio has returned to her home on Maryland.

FLORIDA'S LATEST SENSATION--INTEROCEAN CITY

Interocean City, six miles below Kissimmee on the Dixie Highway, is rapidly becoming a reality. To date no advertising has been used in any newspaper, although a strong advertising campaign is in the making weeks. Notwithstanding this fact a great deal of development work has been accomplished and a number of structures are completed or in the process of building.

St. Cloud is one of the points that this project expects to use to advantage as part of its sales program. Offices already have been opened here by Dr. Bascom Waters, broker, and with Mrs. Helen Ellis as manager. The present sales force includes A. H. Parrell and J. P. Underwood.

There are eleven miles of property in this project that front on the Dixie Highway, according to Dr. Waters, with more than 11,000 acres in the development. The Florida Tropics Development Corporation, W. A. White president, is putting on the project.

Dr. Waters states that it is the plan of the promoters to build a modern city in every respect, with nothing being spared in bringing the dream city to an actuality. Foundations already have been laid for a 60-room hotel, a combination office and store building, an automobile sales room, building supply store, automobile truck and bus plant, a 40-room hotel and two apartment house buildings, one to house 20 the other 12 families. A number of lot owners are living in tents on their property awaiting the arrival of materials in order to construct homes. Development and executive offices have been completed, and a force of salesmen and executives are making headquarters at Interocean City.

Plans already have been prepared for a modern country club and the Country Club Section is now being offered for sale. A golf course has been laid out, also a chain of lakes that will become a link in the great inland water highway.

Commenting on the project Mrs. Ellis said: "The Florida Tropics Development Corporation proposes to leave nothing undone that will make for a modern city in every particular. There will be several sizes of restricted districts to meet all sizes of purses. The city will be surrounded with a number of five and ten acre farms, each of which will be fully equipped before being placed on the market. By 'fully equipped' is meant that a house will be erected, together with the necessary out houses, farming implements will be included, likewise livestock, so that the purchaser will be able to complete a farming transaction in a single purchase."

"As an aid to the farmers a model farm will be operated, wherein will be raised every crop to which the Ridge Country soil lends itself, through this medium the farmer will be saved the time and expense of years of experimentation before learning the most profitable crop or crops."

"Streets will be wide and well shaded. No street—except the one-way drives—will be less than 100 feet in width, the main ones to be 100 feet wide."

"A segregated business section will care for the needs of the new city, while manufacturing will be confined to a specified district. Already the King Truck Company of Highland, Ill., has purchased a five-acre tract and broken ground for its Southern Assembly Plant. This truck is proving popular in road-building and other building activities and the demand in Florida and neighboring states is particularly heavy at this time. Hence the determination to assemble locally and thereby insure prompt delivery. Other negotiations are underway which should result in bringing more large industries to Interocean City."

"Prospects for the future of this infant community are bright indeed. But it is not our desire that anyone take our word for it. We want to 'show' everyone interested what a wonderful proposition we have and will be pleased to take anyone to the property at any time. Interocean City must be composed of satisfied residents or all the plans of the developers will have gone astray."

Agent A. E. Diefendorf is a member of the telegraphers union and replying to the strike order, locked up the local express and freight house as well as the ticket office of the A. C. L.

The strike was called on account of the union members disapproving a decision of the government railroad labor board, acting on demands of members of the union for increases in pay and two weeks vacation throughout the A. C. L. system and efforts are understood to be put forth by the government board to settle the present strike.

In the meantime the railroad company has made every effort to resume service as rapidly as possible in every office.

At noon today officials of the American Railway Express Co., and of the A. C. L. railroad, arrived in St. Cloud with new clerks and are checking out the old office force. Deliveries are being made today of freight and express.

PICNIC AT EAST LAKE CLUB HOUSE

Mrs. C. A. Dawley gave picnic for her home guests on Saturday evening at the East Lake Club House.

Clarence Bailey, realtor, announces that he has representatives now located in Palm Beach, Miami, Ft. Lauderdale, Orlando, Melbourne and Indian Lake, and that his listings of fine Florida properties is about as complete to meet the demands for all kinds of homeseekers needs as can possibly be found in the state.

Mr. Bailey (Clarence), specializes in St. Cloud and Osceola county properties, but also has some fine Orlando listings, and lots at Melbourne and Indian Lake. With his connections in the cities named he is in position to locate newcomers on any kind of land or in any business or residential section that can be desired.

Announcing in this issue in a half page advertisement that he has city homes, vacant lots, business locations and business buildings as well as orange groves, truck farms, timber lands, pasture lands and acreage for all purposes and at all prices, Mr. C. A. Bailey will soon become one of the busiest realtors in this section.

Being already one of St. Cloud's large realty owners, Mr. Clarence Bailey continues to show his faith in this section by continually buying more good parcels of land as they are offered for sale.

A number of fine sales are reported by Clarence Bailey this week through the local notes in this issue of the Tribune.

C. A. Bailey has one of the best listings in the city of all kind of properties, and being personally familiar with the lands of this section gives his customers the benefit of this knowledge.

The notice published in Tribune requesting any one who wished to buy shoes for needy children to wear to school and church, was responded to by one elderly gentleman who hunted up J. M. Rhine, the attendance officer and paid for six pairs of shoes for needy children, whose hearts were made glad as was that of the giver.

HEARTS MADE HAPPY

BRIDGE PARTY FOR GIRLS BASKET BALL AT EAST LAKE CLUB

Friday evening at the East Lake Club House, will be given a bridge party, two hundred tickets were being sold, as yet to press, by committee of ladies assisted by the school children. The purpose of this is to raise a fund to purchase supplies for the St. Cloud Girls Basket Ball team. We must take our hats off to the ladies for this is a step in the right direction. That this will meet with success goes without saying.

ST. CLOUD BAND WILL HOLD FIRST CONCERT NOVEMBER 1ST.

Few things do as much to put life into a community as a good musical organization. Practically all the cities that are winning reputations as being progressive, have musical entertainment.

St. Cloud boasts of something new in musical entertainment for this winter season. The organization, early this fall, of the St. Cloud Orchestral Band, under the direction of C. C. Rolfe, promised much for our city, and as the days draw nearer for the first concert, each rehearsal of our band proves that the executive heads made no mistake in changing from the ordinary "town brass band" to the orchestral band.

The trend of the programs will be lighter, with less of the "bit and dried" music, and more of the ever increasing popular music. The present plans of Prof. Rolfe are that each concert shall present something new, and something different. A soloist, either vocal or instrumental, or a group of soloists. Ensembles of novelties and a general tone of "pop" and life.

The early part of season will cover a series of two concerts a week, and beginning with the height of the season there will, no doubt, be three, or more concerts each week.

The first concert is to be given Sunday, November 1st, in the Community Park, and St. Cloud in a body every last citizen, and as many visitors as can be invited should turn out for this occasion.

All the session, morning, afternoon, and evening will be held in M. E. Church. The full program of the Matters of vital importance to the members and for the protection of the prospective purchasers are being taken up at these meetings and every person selling real estate should seek the protection this organization affords.

NEW YORKER DRIVES
HOME IN ST. CLOUD

Mr. Garrison, of New York State, during the past week bought the new house just completed on Kentucky Avenue, by L. L. Baker. During the coming week Mr. Baker will begin to build two more new houses. Since coming to St. Cloud Mr. Baker has been building and selling and has found it very profitable and it would greatly take care of the great need if there would emulate him in this such needed cause.

FINE SPECIMEN OF CAVEN-DISH BANANAS BOUGHT

The force a the Tribune office were given a treat of Cavendish bananas from the plantation of D. L. Smith, which in flavor and color could not be excelled. This plantation was only started about eighteen months ago and now has two acres of bearing plants with bunches that will average fifty to sixty pounds; and two and one-half acres of plants just in blossom.

This plantation is one and a half miles east of St. Cloud on the bank of Runnymede Lake.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

A REALISTIC JOURNEY FROM
MONTREAL TO ST. CLOUD

I brought a Canadian relation with me. A head tax is demanded of foreigners and those questions: how much money have you? How old are you? How long you going to remain in the United States? The head tax of eight dollars will be refunded if you return to Canada within six months, if you do not ten dollars will be demanded more. Go to the Railroad station for the Washingtonian Special. Have your baggage examined by custom officer to find wine or strong drink or fur dutiable goods. Get in leaves Montreal at eight-fifteen. Get on board. Such is the preparation to enter into the land of the free. You pay for the freedom. If you have a berth in the Pullman the colored waiter will make it up. You retire and sleep on the way if you are accustomed to be awakened or cramped sometimes. If you cannot sleep fancy you can see in the dark the beautiful scenery you are passing through or are yawning or dreaming you are being separated from it. — you love and with whom you have had a good time.

Day time is ahead of the train before you reach New York. You see some scenery but not very much. You enter great New York in a deep underground tunnel with your great long train like a mole. You can not see the city. You stop in the tunnel for a while and off you go as fast as the train will take you. New York is of no importance. St. Cloud is the goal. You rush through great walled ditches into Philadelphia although you see some of the city in the east and west end of the ditches. Still we do not pay much attention to the sights. There is not much time. We must hurry on. We come to Baltimore. We could see more of that than any other city on our way. We passed through very fine parts of it but we could not stop very long. We had to hurry on to Washington and wait there a while to change cars as I had not bought my tickets through to Jacksonville. Here we ate some lunch and waited for the A. C. L. train to take us on as it did a short time. We left at 3:15 P. M. not many hours before darkness. Passed through Richmond, Petersburg and Savannah in the night time. We might have dreamed of old war times and of the battles they recall, but Morpheus must have had possession of our thoughts and so they remained as only historic places.

We reached Jacksonville at about three P. M. and had a long walk to connect with the St. Cloud train. The only incident from there to Kissimmee we fed a hungry looking woman with cake and banana which we could not manage to eat ourselves, and hope it did not make her ill.

At Kissimmee we took the bus but waited for the Tampa train and coming to St. Cloud the bus man took us to Dopey's addition to leave passengers, back down tenth street to leave another and around the near Academy before he landed us at Michigan and 15 street to find my house deserted and dark, as Cedric State had told my house keeper he did not expect me for a day longer. Was this not a realistic trip to come 18000 miles in two nights and two days. It would have been romantic in old times.

Better BUICK Closed Cars

Extra sturdiness is an outstanding feature of Buick motor cars. Buick closed cars demonstrate this most strikingly in cross-country travel.

Town or country, good roads or bad, it's all the same to a Buick. You can go anywhere any car can go and do it much easier because of the famous, 75 horsepower, Buick Valve-in-Head engine.

You can travel long distances in more comfort because of the deep, wide, luxurious seats, the extra head and leg room, and full cantilever rear springs. And Buick's ball bearing, worm and nut steering mechanism removes all driving strain. This is the most efficient and most expensive steering gear so far perfected.

ALL OUT OF SORTS?

So Was This St. Cloud Woman Who Tells Her Experience.

All too often women accept their pains and aches as natural to their sex. They fail to realize that weak kidneys are often to blame for that backache, those headaches, dizzy spells and that tired, depressed feeling. Thousands have found new health and strength by helping the weakened kidneys with Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic. This St. Cloud case is one of many:

Mrs. J. W. Smith, Kentucky Ave., says: "I had such a miserable pain in the small of my back I couldn't get a wink of sleep at night. My kidneys became disordered and my feet swelled so badly I couldn't wear my shoes. There were puffy spots beneath my eyes. I got Doan's Pills at Edwards' Drug Store and was soon cured."

Price 50c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Pills—the same that Mrs. Smith had. Foster-Milburn Co., Smith Bldg., Buffalo, N. Y.

Cordiality at its finest at Dickson-Ives.

The longer one does business at D-I the more one realizes upon what fine principles the store is founded. Friendly service, varied stocks, fair prices.

This is the combination that has made the store grow from a small concern to one of the finest if not the largest in Florida.

At this time when a new season is underway, when the state, this city and others are truly starting a new era, we at Dickson-Ives repledge ourselves to you. May the fine spirit that has been in evidence continue. May you be ever successful and pray we merit your patronage.

REALTY BOARD HOLDS INTERESTING MEETING

The following members of the St. Cloud Realty board were present at a realty board meeting at the Hotel Cafe around a large table prepared for the occasion. Pres. H. L. Steen, Secretary Wm. Landis, Jack Vinson, C. Dawley, Chas. Landis, C. A. Klein, H. A. Haymaker, Mrs. Rosen, G. C. Hunter, Archie Wiggins, C. E. Steen, S. W. Porter, L. M. Parker, Howard Dawley, Frank Patton.

Mrs. Rosenthal brought before the board some samples of the proposed naming of the streets over the city which is to fill a long felt need. Matters of vital importance to the members and for the protection of the prospective purchasers are being taken up at these meetings and every person selling real estate should seek the protection this organization affords.

NEW YORKER BUYS HOME IN ST. CLOUD

Mr. Garrison, of New York State, during the past week bought the new home just completed on Kentucky Avenue, by L. L. Baker. During the coming week Mr. Baker will begin two more new houses. Since coming to St. Cloud Mr. Baker has been building and selling and has found it very profitable and it would greatly take care of the great need if others would emulate him in this much needed cause.

FINE SPECIMEN OF CAYENNE DISH BANANAS BOUGHT BY D. L. SMITH

The force at the Tribune office were given a treat of Cayennish bananas from the plantation of D. L. Smith, which in flavor and color could not be excelled. This plantation was only started about eighteen months ago and now has two acres of bearing plants with bunches that will average fifty to sixty pounds; and two and one-half acres of plants just in blossom.

This plantation is one and a half miles east of St. Cloud on the bank of Runnymede Lake.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

A REALISTIC JOURNEY FROM MONTREAL TO ST. CLOUD

I brought a Canadian relation with me. A head tax is demanded of foreigners and those questions: how much money have you? How old are you? How long you going to remain in the United States? The head tax of eight dollars will be refunded if you return to Canada within six months, if you do not ten dollars will be demanded more. Go to the Railroad station for the Washingtonian Special. Have your baggage examined by custom officers to find wine or strong drink or for dutiable goods. Get on board. Such is the preparation to enter into the land of the free. You pay for the freedom. If you have a berth in the Pullman the conductor will make it up. You retire and sleep on the way if you are accustomed to be awakened or cramped sometimes. If you cannot sleep fancy you can see in the dark the beautiful scenery you are passing through or are fantasizing or dreaming you are being separated from thine—your love and with whom you have had a good time.

some scenery but not very much. You enter great New York in a deep under ground tunnel with your great long train like a mole. You can get out for a while and off you go as fast as the train will take you. New York is of no importance. St. Cloud is the goal. You rush through great walled ditches into Philadelphia; although you see some of the city in the east and west end of the dugouts. Still we do not pay much attention to the sights. There is not much time. We must hurry on. We come to Baltimore. We could see more of that than any other city on our way. We passed through a very fine part of it but we could not stop very long. We had to hurry on to Washington and wait there a while to change cars as I had not bought my tickets through to Jacksonville. Here we ate some lunch and waited for the A. C. L. train to take us on as it did a short time. We left at 3:15 P. M. not many hours before darkness. Passed through Richmond, Petersburg and Savannah in the night time. We might have dreamed of old war times and of the battles they recall, but Morpheus must have had possession of our thoughts and so they remained as only historic places.

We reached Jacksonville at about 11:30 P. M. and had a long walk to connect with the St. Cloud train. The only incident from there to Kissimmee we met a hungry looking woman with cake and banana which we could not manage to eat ourselves and hope it did not make her ill.

At Kissimmee we took the bus but waited for the Tampa train and coming to St. Cloud the bus man took us to Dimp's addition to leave passengers, back down (back street) to leave another and around the near Academy before he landed us at Michigan and 13 street to find my house deserted and dark, as Cedric State had told my house keeper he did not expect me for a day longer. Was this not a realistic trip to come 18000 miles in two nights and two days. It would have been romantic in old times.

ALL OUT OF SORTS?

So Was This St. Cloud Woman Who Tells Her Experience.

All too often women accept their pains and aches as natural to their sex. They fail to realize that weak kidneys are often to blame for that backache, those headaches, dizzy spells and that tired, depressed feeling. Thousands have found new health and strength by helping the weakened kidneys with Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic. This St. Cloud case is one of many!

Mrs. J. W. Smith, Kentucky Ave., says: "I had such a miserable pain in the small of my back I couldn't get a wink of sleep at night. My kidneys became disordered and my feet swelled so badly I couldn't wear my shoes. There were puffy spots beneath my eyes. I got Doan's Pills at Edwards' Drug Store and was soon cured."

Price 60c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Pills—the same that Mrs. Smith had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

Built for Rough Roads Better BUICK Closed Cars

Extra sturdiness is an outstanding feature of Buick motor cars. Buick closed cars demonstrate this most strikingly in cross-country travel.

Town or country, good roads or bad, it's all the same to a Buick. You can go anywhere any car can go and do it much easier because of the famous, 75 horsepower, Buick Valve-in-Head engine.

You can travel long distances in more comfort because of the deep, wide, luxurious seats, the extra head and leg room, and full cantilever rear suspension. And Buick's ball bearing, worm and nut steering mechanism removes all driving strain. This is the most efficient and most expensive steering gear so far perfected.

Better Buick closed models are now on display. Your attention is particularly directed to the 4-door and 2-door Fisher Body Sedans at "Coach" prices!

An Open Letter to the W. C. T. U. of ST. CLOUD, FLORIDA

By J. F. Blood

I desire to express how you can repay me for the mite that I contributed toward the erection of your appreciated Temple, and commend your efforts in its completion.

It should be treated as a denouement only, to the field where your personal activity is required to ameliorate the society of the youth.

You must be aware that you cannot develop a crop of peas and beans through prayer and literary exercises; they must be planted and cultivated; so likewise the germs of morality must be developed in the mind of the youth through unceasing personal labor. This I ask.

My associate, who contributed the lion share, believes in the efficiency of prayer, so you can remunerate him by prayer, which is in line your former activities.

From my knowledge and observation the mind must be supplied with such mental food that will build up its intended moral desires, and that can be the more easily accomplished by bringing the youth together in a social way. I was once a youth and had my social youthful desires, and if I could not gratify them from the higher moral plane, I sought them in the lower level, and I have reason to believe the same desires animate the mind of the youth of today.

And to afford such an opportunity, I suggest that you divide the city into convenient neighborhoods, as will best avail, and gather the children, boys and girls together as often as possible at some desirable place, susceptible to all the privileges necessary for their enjoyment. That they form an association, selecting from each a scout to be changed at each meeting, to gather up all, if possible, in that neighborhood; and also at each gathering, have the boys select a girl to criticize them as to language and demeanor, and the girls the same, and both make their report at the following meeting. Let them choose their method of recreation, and at times have a lunch if nothing more than a sandwich and a glass of water. Such tends to mollify and unify.

Make no distinction as to clothes, simply require them to come with clean hands and face. The poet well said:

"Don't be proud and turn up your nose,

At poorer people with plainer clothes,

But remember for the sake of your soul's repose,

That wealth is a bubble that comes and goes,

And that all proud flesh where'er it grows,

Is subject to irritation."

One or two of your number should meet with them to add dignity, and manifest your interest in their welfare. And by your acts and words impress every child with the thought, that you have an interest in their welfare. A simple cheering word, or kind act has often been the turning point of the welfare of many youth, so also the reverse.

Parents are responsible for the weal or woe of their children, and the churches are responsible for the acts of the parents.

Of course, you ask—why?

It is because they teach that every babe is born a sinner; which they are not; but are as free from sin as the Holy Ghost;—and so continue in their sinful life to the end of time. And that they must confess that they were born sinners and be baptized and join the church or be cast into Hell; but that confession may be made upon their death bed, regardless as to what their life has been, and all will be well in the future world.

The churches have defined what the living must refrain from doing to be at peace with God; which are innocent pleasures that the youth most desire, consequently, the most of them prefer to chance a death bed repentance.

That morality is not an essential factor for future salvation, but the belief in Christ is the only factor of Christianity, and that no person can be saved without that belief and that faith with prayer will assure their salvation, and nothing else will do it.

I was taught those things from my earliest youth, and relied upon them until my limited reasoning faculties dispelled such impressions from my mind. I had a praying mother, and her insistence was all that I needed to inspire faith in the efficacy of the result of prayer. That for the asking, God would forgive every wrong done. So I sought to gratify my desires though they conflicted with my mother's wishes, and to avoid censure and punishment did not hesitate to lie and deceive to accomplish that end, as I relied upon God to forgive me, which I was taught was all that was necessary for the final result. I was not an exception for I knew that all of my playmates, boys and girls, were doing the same. We felt that our parents were too exacting, and that we were justified in our conduct. That is the way children become addicted to deceiving lying, and even, stealing, and that unless checked in the earlier stages, many are allured on the road to the penitentiary, which can be averted by prudent care and associations.

My father was different from my mother in government. I have no recollection that I ever deceived or lied to him. When I realized that I had grieved him, I frankly told him what I had done, and his answer was: I am sorry that you did it, and I am sure that you will not do so again; and I tried not to, but sometimes my enthusiasm would over ride, then I again was frank with him.

If such was the character of every parent, morality would prevail, and the churches flourish. Why I quit praying was because I never had a sensation that my prayers were favorably answered.

My first sensation was when I was some eight years old. In those days, team work on the farm was performed with oxen. I was then just old enough to get up the cows, oxen and tangle over the hay on the rack. One bright morning father spread out several loads of hay to be put into the barn in the afternoon. When we went out from dinner, clouds had formed over the mountains, which indicated that it would soon rain. Father said, "son skip for the oxen," which were in the pasture, and I skip past. I found all the cattle and one of the oxen in a clump, but did not see old Bright. I thought that he might be at the spring, not finding him there I came back to the other cattle, and in my disappointment, I silently prayed to God to tell me where old Bright was. At the conclusion I seemed to feel that God had suggested that I would find him at the extreme corner of the pasture in a thicket there, so there I went to be disappointed again. When I got back, in my desperation I shouted to God to tell me where old Bright was. Just then I heard a rustle in a clump of brush near, which I, at first, passed around to see if there were any indications that he had entered there, and looking saw old Bright's head peering out to see what I wanted of him. That night after prayer I meditated long upon that incident, and my conclusion was that it was old Bright that heard and answered my prayer, and not God.

A little later a neighbor playmate was sick. The principal doctor of the village was a praying doctor. After he had dispensed the medicine and given directions he would kneel beside the bed and ask God to adapt the medicine so as to be beneficial to the patient, but if He would otherwise, to prepare the soul for future life. After the doctor had left, and I was bidding my playmate good bye, he said "do you suppose that God will let me die?" I said I am sure that if we both pray that He won't. From that time I prayed three times a day, but he died.

The wife of a neighbor was sick. Her husband was a devout Christian, so much so that he used to hold prayer meetings throughout the neighborhood during the Fall and Winter evenings, as well as at his home. During her sickness he lavished the good Christians to come and unite in prayer with him to save his wife—the same praying doctor treated her, she also died.

Sometime after that a neighbor living between us and the village died, leaving his family in destitute circumstances, and during the early part of winter we had the usual two day snow storm, blocking the roads so that it took another day to open them up for passage. Following that one of the neighbors went to the village passing by the home of the widow and this is what he related: "As I passed by the house I saw no signs of life and concluded that the widow must have gone to her parents—so it was rumored that she would. But when he returned in the evening he heard a voice in the house appearing to be some one praying; he went near the house where he could hear what she said. She was telling God that they had been without food, wood and oil for the past two days and that her infant was so sick. Please would He send assistance to save them and her poor suffering babe? That he went home as fast as it was prudent, and while his wife was preparing food and medicine, he was loading the sleigh with wood and oil, and they returned; and when they had made them comfortable he returned to the village for the doctor, but it was too late, the babe died the following day."

Reflecting upon that incident, my first rational query was: why did not God tell the neighbor in the morning as he passed by she had been praying for help for the past two days, and yet it is claimed that God knew that she was in distress without being informed that she was in a starving condition. Second that God did not figure in it at all, it was simply a chance. The neighbor and not God heard her pious call and answered it.

A few years after that occurred the climatic incident that wholly destroyed my faith in prayer. Along the range of the White mountains that divided the State of New Hampshire, and Maine, there was a pass between the mountain range so as to admit the passage of the people from one state to the other. At the opening of the pass on the Maine side a man by the name of Willey cleared up a little strip and built his log house up against a very large boulder at the foot of the mountain which protected his house from the washings of the mountain. Some time after that there was a torrential storm that loosened the rocks, trees and soil, so that quite a portion back of the house slid down and filled the valley. The family becoming frightened at the vehemence of the storm, left the house and fled down the valley to be swallowed up in the vortex. Conditions in the house were such that the public so cherished them, that they preserved them. In the center of the room was the table and on it was the family Bible opened at passages encouraging faith in God's protection, chairs were around the table indicating the family were engaged in prayer just before leaving the house. Their bodies were found some time afterwards down the valley indicated by flies that had gathered over the bodies.

As I envisioned the family scene, and reflected upon how the family must have felt as the torrential storm was not abated through their prayers, and that the God to whom they looked for protection, heeded not their prayers, I asked myself: First: Why need the storm to have been produced? Second: why did not God tell them that they would be safe if they remained in the house.

From that day to this I have never asked God for a single favor. I then analyzed my mental self, and decided I had inherent powers to do right or wrong as my desire exerted itself, and that I could control that desire, and that I would control it for the good of mankind, and take my chances for future results. That I would deliberate as to what was right or wrong before acting, and if it proved to be wrong, I would rectify that wrong if possible. Such is my religion.

When I was some twelve years old, my mother bought a large family Bible, a kind of center table Bible; and she told my brother some five years my senior and me, that the one that read it through first, might have it when she was gone. We pitched in but brother soon became disgusted and quit, but I kept on until I had finished it. During that time my mother's health was such that she was unable to attend church, so I was selected to remain with her during the day, and for night, as such, she required me to read to her a chapter or two out of the Bible. One Sunday the Bible opened at the description of the flood. When I was through I said to mother, "Why was God so cruel?" "Why son, what do you mean?" "Why did He kill so many innocent people, and animals and destroy so much property?" She replied, "He did that because they were so wicked?" It didn't say that they did Him or any one else any harm, and the animals surely were not wicked. And then He killed all the first born of the Egyptians, and their animals, and caused plagues to destroy the people, their animals and crops. He drowned the whole of the Egyptian army, men and horses, and destroyed their chariots; all of the army were innocent. And it seems so funny that God took off all the wheels of their chariots. He opened up the earth and buried the city of Korah and her people, and in addition, more; up two hundred and fifty. At another time He destroyed by plague 147,000, and with another plague destroyed 248,000; and commanded Moses to destroy the Midianites, which he did killing all the men and boys and women with child, saving some 32,000 maidens which he turned over to the lot of his soldiers directed Joshua how to destroy Jericho and all her people, so also, "At" and all her people, both cities containing many thousands; also killed Uzzah for putting his hand on the tabernacle, and many thousands because one of two looked into it.

My mother replied "We don't know. God works in mysterious ways." I said "I don't take any stock in a God that acts that way. He cannot be a kind and loving God, or He would not kill His children that way." Young as I was I could not accept a being represented to be so cruel as the Bible depicted Him to be, as a proper being to love and worship. And the more my reasoning faculties developed the more inconsistent the theory of Christianity seemed; since it is predicated upon the representations inscribed in the said Bible.

My observation assures me that there is no moral value in faith; that sole reliance on God cannot be counted on to insure right conduct. My vocation has been such as to bring me in contact with the different classes of people, that are classed as the Christian Nation, and learned their prevailing desires that impelled their actions.

I have heretofore said that parents, teachers and environments are responsible for the education of the child as to good or bad habits, and will refer to one or two instances in support of my claim. My nearest neighbor, a hardware merchant, was a sister in disposition, his wife an amiable Christian woman, a member and organist of the Episcopal church. Their family consisted of a girl some sixteen and a boy about fourteen, when we became neighbors. The girl and boy were students of the Sunday school, and the husband a constant attendant of the church. The father petted the girl and the mother the boy.

And to protect the boy from the censure of the father, shielded him in every possible way. She did the chores that belonged to him to do, while he was off with other boys, she cultivated in him the disposition of avoidance of all essential duties. What he desired that he could plier he secured.

His sister was sick and removed her ring which he pawned to get spending money. They gambled out loud that the Doctor had taken the ring and pawned it, as the boy informed them that the ring was at the Pawn Broker's Office, and the amount required to redeem it. The incident so affected the character of the Doctor that he moved from the City. Later his father secured him a position in Chicago, where he applied his nefarious trade and was arrested, and his father with money and emotions obtained his release. He then went to Nebraska, and there committed grand larceny, arrested and confessed, returning what money he had not spent so there seemed that there was nothing to be considered but the formal sentence.

I was asked to do what could be done for this acquittal, which was secured. His father sent him to Kansas, and assisted in securing a homestead, supplying funds until he made final proof, when he withheld further advances. During the time, he married and they had a lovely little girl. When he proved up he sold his claim, left his wife and child penniless, and became a hobo, and later I learned that he was in the toils for a long term of years. His father brooding over the matter became a monomaniac, and was taken to a sanitarium in California, where in some way secured the revolver of the Warden and shot himself; his wife died soon after.

Another instance of high life emanating from the Sunday school. There were in the city two doctors of about the same age, and neighbors of each other, one had two boys and the other one boy. They were of the age to be playmates, attended the same church and Sunday school, and mated until the one boy became so dissolute that the mother of the two boys restrained them from associating with him, telling them that he was a bad boy, and of course, they told him what their mother had said about him, and he passed it on to his mother; and from that day she was studying the dictionary to find words adequate to flout in the air. Her husband was at first a moral amiable citizen, but her conduct induced him to seek solace in the saloon and later was a confirmed drunkard. On that ground she obtained a divorce. After her boy had matured she came to the office one day with swollen eyes and handed me a letter from her son which informed her that he was in lockup in Chicago and begged for help. She requested me to go to his assistance; I replied that only emotions would avail, and that they did not exist in the Status. What became of him I never learned. The other two boys acquired their education, one for medicine and the other for dentistry. These instances are the results of home education, and the censure should reflect upon the parents and not the children.

A Congressional minister deliberately left while in my office to secure a benefit of fifteen dollars. At the time I mention he had two boys one about twelve and the other ten years of age. For some time they would run out and throw pebbles and mud balls at the buggies as they passed their house, mine included. One day I caught one of them and threatened to take him to the station, of course, he screamed and his mother came out, and to her I related the facts, and instead of reproving the boys she reproved me by threatening to have me arrested for assault. Some time after that the two boys with other boys entered my garden and plucked some cresson supposing them to be watermelons, the same being one Sunday afternoon when I was at home. One of those boys died soon after that followed by the death of his father, and the other became a dissolute.

In my home town the Baptist minister had a boy that his wife brought to church from his infancy. The pew was in front of my father so I had the privilege of observing his conduct. He was allowed to run around in the church and at times annoy his father in the course of his sermon. As he grew up he became incorrigible. One time while I was in a store in the village where the boy was, his father came in after him, and requested him to go home and be reformed, and his father took hold of his arm to pull him along, he jerked away and said to him, "You can preach well and pray well, but G—D—-you, you can't make me mind. Later he died with the diphtheria, presumed because he would not take the medicine. I quote these instances as reflecting upon the faith, that the training of the child cannot be safely entrusted to God alone.

You think that the Sunday school training so plants the seed of truth and virtue in the mind of the youth, that there will be no degeneration from those truths inculcated. In that you are mistaken. The instances that I have cited controvert that conception. And I will state as a witness, that upon myself and those of my class, they had no lasting effect, or even incipient effect. We ran away from church to fish, swim, hunt, pick berries and at times to steal apples. We relied upon God's promises of forgiveness, so as to be well in the end.

The Prison statistics of the U. S. and Canada for the years 1921 and 1922 are more telling than visionary conceptions. I quote from the report of Franklin Steiner, compiled from the Prison Statistics, "Here is a total of 82,525 prisoners, charged with various offenses. Of these, 68,553 or 84 per cent express a preference for some form of Christianity", and I will add that only 13 of the number were atheists, agnostics and free-thinkers, so you see that the churches are the one that are filling the prisons, and not the ones that you would banish into outer darkness. Does Faith in God mollify the animal desire and greed? Not in the field that I have worked in, for forty five years; and the history of the number of the degenerate Divines in the U. S. throws that announced claim.

From my youth up to, to-day, I have compared the characteristic habits of those before proclaiming that they have been sanctified by the blood of Jesus, with their so claimed sanctified acts, and I have seen no visible change in their efforts to gratify their former manifest desires, simply a public announcement of their belief in Christ, without changing their course of action.

I can truthfully say that 75 per cent of my clients that professed to be Christian, were the most selfish, inconsistent mortals with whom I dealt. I had one client a Mr. Gilbert, he was sick named Christ Gilbert because he was eternally pleading Christ to all those that he met on the street. He was used for a debt that was barred by the statute, and came to me to plead the limitation. I asked him if it was an honest debt, he said yes. Then why not pay it? Oh, it is a human nature to avoid paying all you can defeat; yes, I know it, but it is a most damnable streak, and if you want to stand on that defense you will need to secure someone else, for I will not help any man to defeat a just claim.

It is a lamentable fact that I learned in my representative affairs, that the moral business integrity of the gambler, and the saloon keeper much exceeded that of those representing the Divine profession. Today the Tenet of Christianity should be, as practiced, the almighty dollar, instead of a claimed Almighty God.

The prevailing desires, acts and prayer of the professed Christians are for the requirement of the almighty dollar, and to secure the same, they have no scruples as to the manner of its requirement, or respect for others rights.

Since I have been accused of being an alien to the present formula of Christianity, by reason of my mystification of the scriptures, pointing out the inconsistencies and conflicting statements therein, and endeavoring to impress upon the public mind that the youth should be taught to be more self-reliant, and wholly responsible for their conduct toward each other, and branded as an Atheist, and obstructionist as to the welfare of society; I am prompted to relate some of my acts to avert being ostracized beyond the edge of the earth.

I never have prated my ameliorating efforts to benefit mankind; but I will here state, that I am willing to voluntary place, if the same were tabulated, my efforts for the actual benefit of mankind, beside the acts of any Divine that has ever stood in the Pulpit.

As an element of the legal profession I had a large collection list. I collected for the Mason and Hamilton Organ Co. and others, and in that, represented the interests of the debtor as well, but not to the detriment of the interests of the different companies. When parties seemed to be hopelessly behind in payments, I was instructed to take the organ back. In one case I employed an express to go with me for the organ. We went in the evening some ten miles into the country. When we arrived the family were through with their chores, and the children were about the organ playing and singing. And we all joined, and thus spent the evening, which was one of the pleasantest evenings of my life.

Did I take the organ in the morning? No, I arranged with the good woman to bring me in what butter, eggs, chickens and vegetables that we required for living purposes. And I sent the Co. the balance of the amount due. It took a long period for her to pay out. I had many more instances of similar kind, where I saved the organ to the family. My money invested was without interest as the interest to the company entered into the purchase price. I also collected for the Singer, Wheeler and Wilson, and Victor sewing machine companies and I adopted the same plan to keep up the installment due the companies and some cases, the machines were nearly worn out before the last payment was paid. In one case, when I notified the party the wife came in and said that her husband was dead, and that if I took the machine that it would break up her home and family which consisted of three young girls, as she was not able to do heavy work but that she could run the machine. I told her to keep it and pay me what she could. I kept up the payments, without her assistance, and paid for the machine. Some three years after that the daughter came in and said that her mother was dead, and what if she could not keep the machine, they would have to scatter out among friends, but if she could keep the machine, they could manage to keep together. I accepted the contract and said that the machine was hers.

In the early homestead days of western Iowa, eastern Nebraska and Dakota, the country was filled with a class of very poor farming community people and owing to the grasshoppers, drought and inefficiency of the people as to farming, the country developed very slow. The Eastern Machine Manufacturer freely sent their goods, and the homesteaders as freely purchased them on promises to pay, believing that nature would be as prodigal as they were in faith, which she was not. For protection the companies used special prepared notes with a property statement blank to be filled with a list of the personal properties that they had, which must have in excess of the exempt property sufficient, from which the amount of the notes could be made.

The dealers were so unscrupulous that they would fill in large list of properties beyond those given, so to make the notes appear satisfactory to the companies, and the parties confiding in them, signed the property statement without reading it. All went well until the notes became due. Not being promptly paid the companies sent out their agents to look them up, and to their dismay learned of the said conditions, as well as the farmers. The agents brought hundreds of said notes to me with the instructions to collect or arrest. It was a deplorable matter.

I was able in some cases with some of the companies to extend the time of payment, and in all those that were not so lenient, I secured loans by endorsing their paper, and by putting up my own collaterals, to the extent of relieving all the parties. A few stung me, but it was those that relied upon Christ for their support. Where I had been given chattel mortgages to foreclose upon properties that would take away their team, machinery, or other property that would deprive them of their property so as to prevent them from putting in, caring for, or harvesting their crop, I always arranged to get the money for them even if I had to loan it myself.

In all of the foregoing instances mentioned, I did that extra protecting work for the benefit of humanity without any compensation. I did not ask one.

One cold morning a boy some twelve years old came into the office and

St. Cloud this week experienced its first real strike. The A. C. L. station was closed at four o'clock Monday afternoon because the Railway Telegraphers Union had called a strike. The local force belonged to the union, although St. Cloud was not a railway telegraph office. So much for our rapid progress. We have been growing so fast that it was about due that we should have some "big city stuff," but it was regrettable that it had to occur when the yards of the Atlantic Coast Line were filled with building materials for the new construction working under way.
Had this been a telegraph operated railroad station there would have been no ill feeling with the majority of the sufferers because of the tie-up but when it is known that it was only because the employees of the company here belonged to the union and that closing this office for delivery of freight and express on hand cannot possibly help the union, the criticism of the local force has some merit.

BAPTIST CHURCH

Rev. R. Atchison, Pastor

Time of Sunday services, 10:45 A.
M. and 7:30 Sunday School meets at 9:30 Mrs. E. F. Lang, superintendent.
The Whomever-Will Bible Class is still taught by the pastor and meets in the G. A. R. Hall at 9:30. "Strangers always welcome to all of our services. Eight new members have been received into the church during the last month. The work is progressing nicely on our new addition to the church building which as soon as completed will give us a separate room for every class in the Sunday School, including the pastor's Bible class. The church has voted to go ahead and complete both floors of the new addition, the seats for the auditorium and folding chairs for the class rooms are being ordered this week. The entire church will in all probability be heated by electricity although this has not been fully decided as yet.

Arrangements are also being made to heat the water used for the baptistry. Dressing rooms and a toilet will also be a part of the new equipment.

While this church does not approve of giving suppers in order to raise money for the church yet we do want to be prepared to entertain visiting delegates to Missionary meetings and have a place for our young people to meet when they come together in their social gatherings therefore a kitchen with the proper equipment will be installed in the basement. We hope also to have a good church bell in the belfry. When finished the new addition will be stuccoed while the walls on the inside will be plastered.

It will take from twelve to fifteen thousand dollars to carry out this program but when completed will be a building that the congregation and community can well be proud of and will answer the needs of the work for some time to come. Anyone willing to make a gift toward this work can give same to the pastor or W. A. Wood, Treasurer of the Building fund.

In order to meet all of our obligations when due, the church has issued $12,000 bonds ($100 each) and secured by mortgage on the church property and placed in trust at the Peoples Bank. These bonds will run from three to ten years, bearing 6 per cent interest, payable semi-annually and non-taxable. The pastor will be glad to give further information concerning these bonds to anyone interested in the purchase of them.

Last week was graduation week in the Sunday school when many of the scholars passed from one grade into another after receiving their certificates. The Sunday School just recently organized a special class for the Teachers of the Day School with seven members, our hearts are also made glad to see many of these helping in the work of the choir. The B.
Y. P. U. was never better attended than at the present time. The pastor will be glad at all times to call upon the sick or anyone interested in the work that we are trying to do.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH

(On the Dixie Highway)

Ivor G. Hyndman D. D. Minister
Our Slogan: "A Friendly Church
in a Friendly City"

The service last Sunday evening in charge of the Laymens Council was a pronounced success. There was a very good attendance in spite of the unpropitious weather. The program from the first went off with a snap and enthusiasm that carried the congregation. The musical program alone was a splendid treat. The selections rendered by that musical Male Voice Quartette, Messrs. Patton, Bennett and the Stoen brothers were most appropriate to the occasion. Mr.
J. B. Ellis at the piano is a fine acquisition for this kind of meeting.

"Uncle Josh" Ferguson presided over the service in his usual happy manner. Mr. Buckhout surprised and delighted the audience in his address on Tithing. His talk was both witty and weighty, and was throughout a powerful plea for Stewardship. Capt.
Bell gave a vivid account of his early adventures at sea and the story of his conversion at the age of seventy five. Mr. L. M. Parker followed with an earnest plea for personal loyalty to Jesus Christ.

The regular order of services will be followed next Sunday with one exception. The Mens Bible Class which has been accustomed to meet in the Balcony of the Church during the regular Sunday School hour will meet in the future at the office of Parker and Parker on Tenth Street, at nine thirty A. M. The class will hold its own devotional exercise. Mr. Colvin Parker is the teacher.

Mrs. Kanavel will be the soloist at the morning service.
The Laymens Council will meet on Wednesday at the offices of Parker and Parker instead of at the church.
The Senior Circle of the Ladies Aid will hold an all day session on Tuesday.

One of the worst dangers of sickness is that—we accept diseased conditions as our lot. (Don't forget that to accept—is a mental phenomenon.)
Allowing it to become chronic,
through adaptation of an abnormal condition.

We should never accept as belonging to us, any abnormal condition.

We should remember that, one of the worst things we can do—is to learn to think of any abnormal condition as belonging to us or with the idea of possession.

It is fatal to think.

My sickness.
My headaches.
My rheumatism.
My dyspepsia.
My neuritis.
My constipation.

A letter from a lady who has lately been examined—and the diagnosis told her she was threatened with cancer—states that she has not been able to sleep since. (Those diag-nosticians must always find the patient has cancer or is threatened with cancer.)

Worrying over her impending doom, she has accepted cancer as her lot, and thru worry is disturbing the functioning of every organ in her body.

By concentration of objective thought when a wake, and sub-conscious thought when a sleep—on the spot of the potential cancer—she will raise the temperature to the point of death to tissue—and supuration will take place and she will die of cancer—unless her mental attitude is changed.

Can her mental attitude be changed? Yes; it can be changed by suggestion. Her condition was caused by suggestion, and suggestion is the only remedy.

That is mind in motion.
Movement of mind is caused by suggestion.

The nature of a thought is determined by the nature or quality of the suggestion that arouses it.

Hatred, envy, rage or temper,
sorrow, worry, persecution, will produce sickness and death.

Pleasant environment and happy thoughts conduce to health. Music causes pleasure, therefore, Music is therapeutic.

A few are so depraved as to be unable to get any pleasure out of music.

We pity them!!

For the Information of the Public

The strike which has been ordered by the General Committee of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers among its members employed by the Atlantic Coast Line is the culmination of the refusal of that organization to accept a decision by the United States Railroad Labor Board denying the demands of the organization for a general increase in wages and for annual vacation of two weeks with pay.

Throughout the negotiations which led up to the present situation the Atlantic Coast Line has scrupulously complied both with the letter and the spirit of the law and with the orders of the Labor Board which is the agency created and authorized by Congress for the settlement of disputes between the railroads and organizations of their employees.

The Order of Railroad Telegraphers agreed readily enough to submit the case to the Railroad Labor Board for settlement but refused to accept the decision made by the Board after exhaustive investigation and has ordered a strike because the decision which they had asked the Board to make did not satisfy them.

The Labor Board decided that the demands of the organization for a general increase of wages and for a vacation rule were not justified. It instructed both parties to look into the question of eliminating inequalities in the pay of some positions. For this purpose conferences were held by the Atlantic Coast Line with representatives of the Telegraphers in an effort to reach an amicable settlement of this issue, recommended by the Labor Board, and the Atlantic Coast Line, after negotiations lasting for a period of five weeks, made an offer to adjust the rates of pay of a substantial number of positions involved.

This offer was refused by representatives of the Telegraphers who on September 16th broke off negotiations with the statement that they would not further discuss the question of removing inequalities but would demand again a general increase and vacation for all men, both of which demands had been found by the Labor Board to be unwarranted. When the Atlantic Coast Line suggested that the matter should be referred again to the Labor Board in accordance with directions by the Board that this be done if no settlement was reached, the representatives of the organization refused to join in such action.

The Atlantic Coast Line, therefore, informed the Labor Board of its failure to reach a settlement, and the Labor Board immediately assumed jurisdiction over the controversy and ordered both parties before it at Chicago for a hearing on October 9th. Officers of the Atlantic Coast Line appeared as ordered, but the Telegraphers' organization declined to comply with the Board's instructions and did not put in an appearance. In view of this the Labor Board decided to send three members to the property to investigate the whole situation; one member representing the public, who is Vice-Chairman of the United States Railroad Labor Board, one representing the organizations and one representing the railroads. This section of the Board conducted hearings at Wilmington on October 12th and 13th.

Prior to this time a strike ballot had been distributed among the members of the organization. At the Wilmington hearing representatives of the organization informed the Labor Board members that while the Telegraphers would co-operate with the Board in making the proposed investigation, such co-operation would not be allowed to interfere with the program which the organization had mapped out for handling the matter on their own account.

The representatives of the Labor Board visited a number of places on the property getting the facts in regard to the situation, so that a report could be made to the full membership of the Labor Board, following which the Board has announced that a prompt and final decision would be made, and the Company will be governed by that decision. The strike has been called without waiting for this action by the United States Railroad Labor Board. It is in direct defiance of the law.

The Atlantic Coast Line will make every effort to provide for uninterrupted service to the public.

after getting warm, asked to clean the spittoon and sweep down the stairs which they did not require. I asked him what he would do with the money, he said "Get some bread for breakfast for himself, brother and sister." I asked what his father was doing, he said "He was dead," how about your mother, "said that she had to work out washing, that yesterday she was sick, and we cut up all that we had for supper so we had nothing for breakfast." I went with him to the bakery and got him two loaves of bread and a dozen doughnuts, and told him when had eaten to come back and do the work. I did not wish to have him feel that he had not earned it. About a week later he came again to the office, and I saw that he had been crying. I asked him what was the matter? "He said that their landlord was going to put them out of the house if mother did not pay the rent today." He told me what a hard time they were having to live. I took him to the office of the landlord and asked him to tell him what he had told me which was that many days they had to lay a bed because they had no fuel, and many days had but one meal a day, and that his brother and sister had to go with rags on their feet as they had no shoes or stockings. When he was done I peremptorily demanded of the landlord that he give the boy a receipt for two months rent, and show that he was a human being. He gave the receipt. After leaving the office I asked him if he that he could sell newspapers. Sure he could. I took him to two publishers, one a morning, and one an evening paper, gave each a dollar and arranged to give the boy what papers that he could sell; he paying for what he sold at the close of the day and take back what he had not sold. The three children started in and before the week expired they were earning from fifty cents to a dollar per day. Those two boys are today rated among the best business men of the city.

Many of the merchants of the city came to me, at different times, with the complaint that many of their cash boys and girls and even clerks were pilfering from the store, and desired that I have them arrested and punished. In each case I persuaded them to be lenient, and not destroy what little character they possessed and urged them to send them to me first, that I might reason them out of that habit. I reasoned with them, and went with them to their parents and thus I gained a full insight as to how the children had been educated to do wrong. These efforts resulted in establishing in the mind an interest in the welfare of the children and the willingness of the merchants to try them out, which in every case was a success, and most of them remained with them until they changed their vocation. One little girl and boy said that they took the pennies to put into the Sunday School box. In all of my dealing with boys and girls as to their conduct, there were but two, a boy and a girl, that it became necessary to send to the reformatory, and they afterwards made good.

In several instances I separated the children from their parents by securing places for them among the farmers, where later they even became members of their families. A case of a young lady required a most determined resistance to thwart the efforts of her employer, for the care more for revenge than the loss of the property and it was only when I asked her to consider the fact how she would feel, were I to arrest her daughter who was then my stenographer? I arranged with the girls brother to compensate for the property taken, and the girl soon married. What would have become of her had she been arrested?

One dull blizzard day an old comrade came to the office with little rivulet streaks down his cheeks. Asked what was the matter, he said "Mr. Chase, an attorney, was going to have him arrested." Why? "Because he said that I had sold some wheat that he had a mortgage on, and that if I did not give him a mortgage on my home that he had a mortgage on," and that if I did not give him a mortgage on my homestead when I proved up he surely would." Mr. Chase represented a party that had a mortgage on one half of all the wheat that he raised that year, and I represented a party that had a mortgage on the other half. I asked him that if I would help him out, would he give my people a mortgage on the homestead—"Sure he would." I went over to Mr. Chase's office with him, and asked Mr. Chase what was the matter? He said that Mr. Barrett had sold the wheat that he had a mortgage on, and that he was going to have him arrested. I said not for that; the wheat that he has sold was my half of the wheat; your half is in the crib, and he will take it into the elevator tomorrow, or I will give you a check for the amount that it would bring, and he keep the wheat upon which to live. He brought suit for the balance of his claim; I appeared and defeated the said balance.

For all my services for the old man I made no charge.

I represented many soldiers and widows in securing their pensions, for which I made no charge. I had more than my share of probate work, and in all cases where the Estates, and in all cases where the estates, and orphans, I made no charge. In divorce cases where I was asked to bring actions, or defend, my first effort was to bring the parties together to see if the bone of contention could not be put in the eye and dissolved, and used to wash away all moral imperfections. In many cases such was the result, and harmony restored. Such instances were against my monied interests, as I never charged or received compensation for my services.

In all cases of neighborhood clashes wherein I was asked to bring or defend actions I made every possible effort to get the parties together in the office and induce them to lay aside sentiment, and consider only the dollar valuation, arrive at a reasonable conclusion, shake hands, and go home and again be neighbors. The controversy between two neighbors is the matter of the whole people, each side has its friends and in but a few instances did I ever charge or receive compensation, for my time in these efforts and I will here say, that in NO SEVEN all charges, I always made them as small as would simply provide me sufficient sustenance for a comfortable living which was always economical. My accumulations were derived from judicious investments in real estate. I donated nearly half of my time for the benefit of humanity. Had I charged and collected for services as others charged for like services, ten thousand dollars would not have camouflaged my time.

It was doled out to them that were in need and not scooped up into a pile for some electominary monument like Rockefeller, and others to be gazed upon by future generations. My working hours were from seven in the morning to nine-thirty in the evening, save one hour each for dinner and supper, for twenty-five years, which enabled me to devote so much time to charity work. I knew that I was censured by many of the business men of the city, because I worked against the city inflicting the city with so large indebtedness. In that I was working against my own monied interests and for the interest of those that simply had their home, and the income of their pension for support, which was ~~apart~~ without dividing it up for taxes. But when they indicated by their vote 16 to 1, I was the first one to say Amen, as it tripled the value of my real estate holdings in the city and county.

A few weeks ago it was my privilege to listen to one of the most practical sermons that ever emanated from the pulpit, delivered by Rev. Hyndman. It far exceeded St. Matthew's Sermon on the Mount. His character, Mack, embodied every phase of the characteristics of life. It depicted the purity of birth, the subjugation of the will power, but not destroying the susceptibilities of respect; the effect of the simplest kindness and the power that it kindled in the mind to overcome the strongest animal desires. Of course, Christ was given the credit for that accomplishment but it was the inherent attributes of nature, and social environments, and without those attributes, failure would have been the counterclaim.

I have an instance where those principles were manifested, and wherein Christ was not manifested, or sought for assistance. I received a real estate mortgage for foreclosure upon the home of a brick mason contractor, who was in good standing when the mortgage was executed; but had become so dissipated by drink, that he even failed to supply the necessary provisions for his family. After the proceedings had been commenced, his wife came to the office in an hysterical condition and for hours moaned and sobbed as she related how he had destroyed their once happy home, and deceived her by representing that he had kept up the interest, taxes, etc. Later I invited her husband to come to the office one evening, and also, invited half a dozen of the substantial business men to be present, telling them that the object was to try and reform her husband. When they had gathered, I related the condition and remarks of his wife, and asked him if he could not abandon that dissipated habit and reconstitute himself in the community. He vowed that he would. I thereupon wrote out a resolution to that effect, which he signed, and all the others signed as witnesses, including the saloon keeper where he had spent his time and money, whom I had included in the list. They all promised to help him back into business. I secured a private sale of the property, more advantageous than a public sale, also secured a lot on the partial payment plan, and credit for material, which enabled him to build a small home. He secured work and soon was as prosperous as ever, and in a few years had a much better home than formerly.

That was the result of self-reliance; and that is the principle to be cultivated by each and every one, and especially be inculcated into mind of the child, even from its earliest existence, which can be done in comprehensive ways.

Don't tell them that God will do this and that for them, but to do it themselves, and to love and respect each other, and strive to live a moral and upright life.

That God is too busy to attend to every little detail of life. That God is present and hears the prayers of 300,000,000 or more at the same time, from people existing all over the globe, at the same moment, and asking for the same identical favors, is astounding to many reasoning minds, and should be to all. The scriptures, say "Pray without ceasing", but with less prayer, and more efficient action is what the community most needs instead of going to God, go to the person whom you have wronged and ask him, or her for amonement. Sin is the wrongful treatment of your associates, and it is to them that you owe the apology.

A moralist said to his friend, "I once shot a bird for no good reason but to shoot at something, it dropped a heap of ruffled feathers. I shall never get that bird out of my mind, and the worst of it is that to all eternity I can never make any atonement. His friend said, 'but God will forgive you'; 'what do I care for that when that little bird cannot forgive me.' Such is the essence of morality. What avail has prayer? It did not save the life of Floyd Collins. During the time a severe storm came and retarded the work, which seemed to have hastened his death. The National Universal prayers did not prolong the life of President Harding.

Have you any proof of the direct benefit of prayer, other than your self assured belief? If you have, please give it to the world that we may see and know its significance. I held a claim against a Salvation Army exhorter, with instruction to present the matter to the Grand Jury for action, as he had disposed of the property upon which there was a lien. I delayed to give him a chance to make good, and as I used to listen to what he used to tell "What Jesus had done for him", I wondered what he was before Jesus commenced to work for him.

I had a farm in a school district where the people held Sunday School during the summer months, and as often as possible they secured some one to preach for them. A man rented in the neighborhood that pretended to have been sanctified sufficiently to impart the same to them. Often Sundays I drove out to the farm to commune with nature; and I learned that he made uncomplimentary remarks about it.

In the early fall, he learned that a warrant was out for him for selling mortgaged property, so skipped out, leaving his family in destitute circumstances. When the legal time permitted she obtained a divorce for desertion.

My experience in dealing with the members of the church, ministers included, justifies me in saying that at least 50 per cent of them are hypocrites and bigots. If the ministers would enact what they preach, and the church members practice what they profess, there would be no need of subsidizing cynical evangelists to frighten the children, and the wayward into the church, the public would voluntarily enroll themselves, and work to build up a society emblematic of the so claimed heaven.

Henry Ward Beecher said, "That it is lamentable that there are so many Christians without morality, and so many moral people without Christianity." May we not register him with the first class?

I have to my credit, the saving of three youths from drowning, and one woman from burning to death. I learned later in life that my good mother remarked, when she learned that I had chosen the legal profession for my life vocation, "That she would rather have followed me to my grave in my infancy, than to have lived to follow the legal profession."

And yet with all my honest efforts in doing good, according to your faith and belief; based upon your fallacious Bible, I must be cast into that hell of eternal fire. And for daring to criticize that Bible and your wayward acts, you would gladly help gather fagots to burn me at the stake as the witches of old, and clap your hands at my writhing.

It is!
